To the Editor:

I beg the privilege of saying a word to the public through the columns of the Daby Neva. I ask in common fairness a suspension of public judgment as to the Anarchists now imprisoned or under the ban. Will the people wait until our side has had its opportunity to be heard in the court of general opinion? The howl has gone up from public and press now, as of old, "Crucify!" But even an Anarchist ought not to be condemned and executed without a hearing. Is there nd executed without a hearing. Is there ot danger that in the excitement of the not danger that in the excitement of the hour good people will forget to inquire whether the Anarchists have really violated any of the laws of the city, State or Nation? I do not understand that any one has charged that the meeting at Haymarket Square, which the police attempted to disperse, was an unlawful assemblege, or that the attendants were engaged in any ricous act when interrupted. If n any riotous act when interrupted. If t be so, were not the police instead of the Anarchists the law breakers? [Signed] LUCY E. PARSONS.

led to his arrest, was sworn and told the story of how he worked himself into Jaehne's confidence.

In Washington, D. C., at the time of President Cleveland's inauguration, Jaehne, he said, told him that "Bill" Maloney, Reading Clerk of the Board, had made $100,000 to $150,000, hecause he had handled the money and was not a man to do it for nothing. In 1885 the witness had a series of talks with Jaehne, up to the time of his arrest. In the latter part of October, 1885, they talked about the Broadway Railroad Company and witness told defendant if they, the Aldermen, were not careful they would be sent to prison through Maloney, who was going around bar rooms talking about the money he had given them for their votes. Defendant replied that Maloney wasn't any worse than some of the other members. When elected they hadn't enough to pay the election expenses and at the end of the year they were baying real estate, and everybody knew they could not buy real estate on their salaries.

He was elated over his election, and when the witness said he thought he was not to be a candidate, he replied that they are an additionally and the country poor one; that there had been a very poor one; that there had been a very poor one; that there had been a very poor one; that there had been the syndicate from Philadelphia and this city, and that no business had been done in 1885. The witness had another conversation with defendant at City Hall a couple of days before the Aldermen testified before the Senate Committee. Jachne said that things were in a dreadfully bad shape. Witness replied he had told him they (the Aldermen) would get into trouble through their independence, but any way, he could serve him he would be glad to do so. Jachne asked him to find out what District Attorney Martine was doing, and whether there were going to be any indictments. Witness told him that Waite, Fellgraff and Mueller had been promised immunity if they told all they knew. Jachne visited him at his house wish to hasten to a division on the scond he could serve him he would be glad to do so. Jaehne asked him to find out what District Attorney Martine was doing, and whether there were going to be any indictinents. Witness told him that Waite, Fullgraff and Mueller had been promised immunity if they told all they knew. Jaehne visited him at his house that evening and in further conversation said that the Aldermen named knew he did business with Maloney.
